BACKGROUND INFORMATION:

The following interesting article about the abuse of parking bays for the disabled appeared in THE HERALD, an Eastern Cape weekly newspaper, dated 12 July 2017.

DISABLED PARKING FIGHTBACK

A Western Cape mall has found a way to strike back at the able-bodied shoppers who nab parking bays allocated for the disabled. Waterstone Village, in Somerset West, filled a row of parking bays with wheelchairs and mobility scooters, preventing cars from using them. Signs on the wheelchairs had messages such as 'I am just quickly drawing money', 'See you in two minutes' and 'It was the only open spot'. The reactions of shoppers were filmed during the three-day campaign. The video is now attracting thousands of You Tube viewers. Waterstone Village has reported an improvement in the behaviour of able-bodied shoppers since the campaign. Waterstone Village has challenged other shopping malls to do the same.
