QUESTION 1: PRÉCIS

- Being aware of the things that could have a negative effect on the outcome of an interview is an advantage/positive thing.
- Being called for an interview might make one feel that you already got the job.
- Due to the competition, one needs to prepare well for the interview.
- Research the company beforehand.
- Do not arrive late. Determine the location beforehand and arrive earlier.
- Do not dress inappropriately. If unsure of the company's dress code, dress formally.
- Do not give a negative report of your previous employer.
- Do not lie about your past experiences and qualifications.
- Switch off your phone during the interview. A ringing phone is a distraction that can cost you.
- Settle for a glass of water to avoid anything that can cause a mess.
- Be prepared to handle situations where you are required to demonstrate your ability to deal with various situations. Rehearse your responses in advance.
- How you have handled real life situations will also come in handy.
- Be confident and add humour so you stand out from the crowd.
