higher education & training

Department:
Higher Education and Training
REPUBLIC OF SOUTH AFRICA

MARKING GUIDELINE

NATIONAL CERTIFICATE (VOCATIONAL)

ADVERTISING AND PROMOTIONS
NQF LEVEL 3

12 NOVEMBER 2019

This marking guideline consists of 8 pages.

Copyright reserved

QUESTION 1

1.1 True
1.2 True
1.3 False
1.4 True
1.5 False
1.6 False
1.7 True
1.8 True
1.9 True
1.10 True

(10 × 1) [10]

QUESTION 2

2.1 C
2.2 D
2.3 J
2.4 E
2.5 I
2.6 G
2.7 H
2.8 A
2.9 F
2.10 B

(10 × 1) [10]

QUESTION 3

3.1 Timeframe
3.2 Tactics
3.3 Sample
3.4 Marketing assistant
3.5 Monitoring
3.6 Cost leadership
3.7 Strategic marketing
3.8 Retail
3.9 Line of authority
3.10 Intranet

(10 × 1) [10]

Copyright reserved

This is a theoretical guideline, any other relevant answers could be considered

QUESTION 4

4.1
- A media specialist is a person with great knowledge or skill in a particular media field.
- A media specialist is an expert in a specific field of marketing. (Any 1 × 2) (2)

4.2
- High-end digital signs
- Airport advertising
- Freeway and suburban displays
- Street furniture
- Static advertising
- Video walls in malls (Any 2 × 1) (2)

4.3
- Printed media
- Television
- Cinema
- Sponsorship
- New media (Any 3 × 1) (3)

4.4 (Any 3 × 2) (6)

4.5
- Identify key elements of the competitors' strategy
- Identify the companies' objectives
- Find out how the companies use their resources
- Find out how the companies use their marketing mix
- Identify the companies' strengths and weaknesses (Any 5 × 1) (5)

4.6 4.6.1
- Competitive factors
- Geographic factors
- Affordability
- Timing
- Target Market
- Lack of information
- Inconsistent terminology
- Time pressure
- Measurement problems
- Price concerns (Any 4 × 1) (4)

4.6.2
- Competitive factors: The media planner should know what the competitors are doing to advertise their products, where and when they are advertising and whether they have been successful. The planner must decide whether to use the same media as the competitors or use different ones.

- Geographic factors: This refers to where the target audience is located, maybe they are limited to one city/province therefore the choice of media might be easy because the company can use the local newspaper/local radio station.
- Affordability: The availability of funds/budget for advertising will affect the media plan. Some media are more expensive than others. Placing an ad in the local newspaper might be a lot cheaper than advertising on TV.
- Timing: Part of the media plan is deciding when to advertise products e.g. Mother's Day. The company has to make its advert more interesting and attractive than its competitors.
- Target Market: You must identify the exact target market for your product.
- Lack of information: A lack of information can cause difficulties when planning, as using out-dated information to base decisions on
- Inconsistent terminology: terminology can be inconsistent such as cost bases used by the different media can vary.
- Time pressure: Pressure to get advertising out as soon as possible can cause problems.
- Measurement problems: It is not easy to determine the effectiveness and impact of adverting and promotions.
- Price concerns: Sometimes less effective media vehicles have to be chosen because the more effective ones are too expensive. ✓

(NOTE: Explanation must correspond with factor mentioned in QUESTION 4.6) (Any 4 × 1 ONLY allocate mark for explanation) (4)

4.7

- Did you remember the advertisement?
- Did you recognise the brand name or the name of the company?
- Did you remember any of the information in the advertisement?
- Did you understand the message of the advertisement?
- Did you understand the difference between our product and the products of competitors?
- How do you feel about the product and service?
- Was there anything in the advertisement that made you change your attitude towards a product or service?
- Did the advertisement make you buy the product?
- Was there anything in the advertisement that turned you against the (4) product or company?

- Are you aware of the different brands?
- Do you show loyalty to another brand or company? (Any 4 × 1)

[30]

QUESTION 5

5.1 Business to business (2)

5.2 In-person events (2)

5.3
- They can advertise in specialist trade publications for example, a manufacturer can advertise a new range of canned soups in a magazine for supermarket owners.
- They can run competitions for dealers. For example, you offer a free trip to Mauritius to the retailer who sells the highest number of your product by a certain date.
- They can run training programmes. These programmes can help retailers and dealers to present your product or service in a way that will persuade customers to buy it.
- They can advertise jointly with a retailer. For example, you include the name of the shop when you advertise your product.
- They can set up displays in shops where the customer will buy the product.
- They can take part in trade shows and exhibitions. For example, publishers can promote their products at book fairs. (Any 4 × 2) (8)

5.4

LONG-TERM OBJECTIVES	SHORT-TERM OBJECTIVES
• Lasting product awareness	• Raising product awareness
• Increasing profit	• Creating product preference
• Increasing market share	• Increasing sales

(3 × 2) (6)

5.5
- Identify the target audience:
  Who are the target audience for your product? Are your socks for people doing sports? Are they glamorous socks for ladies or happy socks for men?

- Decide on the message that you want to communicate:
  What is the objective of the company? Does the company want to be seen as an organisation that helps to improve customers comfort, health and wellbeing? Does it want to have a smart image and modern appeal?

(12)

- Decide on the amount of money you want to spend:
  How much money can you spend and how will you use it?

- Select the promotional elements you will use:
  Which media will you use?

- Implement the plan:
  You may need to train people to implement the plan so that it is successful

- Decide how the results are to be measured:
  You need to decide how to find out whether the strategy meets the objectives you set in Step 2. (6 × 2)

[30]

QUESTION 6

6.1 6.1.1
- Their employees
- Their people (Any 1 × 1) (1)

6.1.2
- A successful, sustainable business is ultimately dependent on the quality and strength of its people.
- No technological breakthrough will ever replace the power of perspective and the insight that comes from hard-earned knowledge and experience, and being continuously aware of how we influence the world around us requires a special kind of person with a special kind of energy. (Any 1 × 2) (2)

6.2 6.2.1
- The PRIMERIA Academy
- Leadership Development Programme
- Executive course in association with GIBS (3)

6.2.2
- They help their staff develop their skills through accredited training that guarantees both quality assurance and national recognition of their training.
- In their senior training programmes, they offer personalised opportunities to grow and develop their leadership talent – a core investment into our long-term sustainability through building a strong succession pool in our companies. (2 × 2) (4)

6.3
- Compare what happens with the set goals
- Keep a diary
- Think about what you have learnt
- Obtain feedback
- Help others (Any 4 × 1) (4)

6.4 6.4.1
- Unresolved conflict
- Lack of communication
- Lack of goals

(4)

- Lack of leadership

6.4.2
- Unresolved conflict: Conflict can stop people from doing their work properly if it is unresolved.
- Lack of communication: If team members are not told exactly what they have to do, they will not be able to do their jobs properly.
- Lack of goals: A team cannot work efficiently if team members do not know what they are working towards.
- Lack of leadership: Any group of people needs a leader to guide them. (4)

6.5
- Tell team members why they were chosen for their task.
- Praise team members for their work.
- Make sure the team members understand the team's goals, their roles and responsibilities.
- Listen to what team members say.
- Reply to any comments and information that the team gives.
- Show confidence in the team's goals and in the team members.

(Any 4 × 1) (4)

6.6
- The best way to set goals is for team members to decide together on the goals.
- If team members agree on their goals, there will not be any conflict about their roles and responsibilities. (2 × 2) (4)

[30]

QUESTION 7

7.1 7.1.1
- Checking the levels of merchandise
- Checking the quality of promotional material
- Identifying promotional problems
- Taking corrective action (4)

7.1.2
- Checking the levels of merchandise: This process takes place before and during the promotion where you have to check whether you have sufficient/enough merchandise for expected sales. This will curb/prevent loosing sales and leaving customers unhappy because you do not have what they want.
- Checking the quality of promotional material: All promotional material should be clean, neat and attractive as this creates a good impression to customers. Posters should not be bended as well as keeping the writing on posters clear, easy to read. Making use of clear bright colours creates a good impression and will lead to customers buying from us not elsewhere.

- Identifying promotional problems: Merchandise maybe of poor quality or have factory faults and that creates a bad impression for the business.
- Taking corrective action: If there is a problem, take action immediately and fix it. By taking corrective action, you will create a good impression about your business. (4)

7.2
- It is written standards of behaviour in the organisational code of conduct and ethics that should be clear enough for employees to know what they should do when they have ethical problems.
- It helps everybody in the organisation to behave in the same way.
- This will improve the way they work together and will help the organisation to achieve its objectives. (3 × 2) (6)

7.3 Trade agreements state the details of the job or service that the service supplier will supply,✓✓ the time when it must be started and when it must be finished,✓✓ the amount of money the organisation will pay for the job,✓✓ and when the organisation will pay this money.✓✓ (Any 3 × 2) (6)

7.4
- Who the organisations internal and external customers are.
- How the organisation intends to serve its customers.
- What customers can expect from the organisation when they phone, write or send an e-mail.
- What customers can expect if they visit the organisation.
- How customers can give the organisation feedback.
- What service the customers will get after a sale and how the organisation will support customers. (Any 4 × 2) (8)

7.5
- It is an official statement giving information to the newspaper, radio or television
- It is information that an organisation gives to the media so that it gets positive publicity (Any 1 × 2) (2)

[30]

TOTAL: 150