4.2 Read case study below and answer the questions.

Mrs Smith is the receptionist at Boikamoso TVET College. Her greatest challenge is to deal with different types of people with their different moods, attitudes or expectations. One of her major challenges is to make visitors feel welcome. The other day a visitor arrived at the receptionist's desk and Mrs Smith was busy talking to her friend on the telephone. She did not stop her conversation, even though the visitor was clearly waiting for her attention. The visitor stood there until the conversation was over. Mrs Smith did not greet him, and it was clear that she was not pleased to finish her conversation. It turned out that the visitor wanted to see the manager and had no appointment. The visitor was turned away without even being offered an appointment. The visitor left the office feeling very unhappy and frustrated.

4.2.1 Explain what you think of Mrs Smith's behaviour. (3)

4.2.2 Redraw the table below in your ANSWER BOOK and complete it by identifying FOUR areas of non-compliance portrayed by the receptionist, Mrs Smith, as well as what she should have done in each case.
